CHILD CRUSHED BY TRACTOR'S WHEELS; DIES IN HALF HOUR

Sandra Fay Knouse, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clair H. Knouse, Biglerville R. 1, was fatally injured when a tractor driven by her father ran over the child about 6 o'clock Monday evening.

Dr. C. G. Crist, county coroner, said the death was caused by a compound fracture of the skull.

The child died in Franklin township, near Mummashburg, as she was being brought to the Warner hospital here by Dr. Raymond Hale of Arendtsville.

Prior to the accident Mr. Knouse had been filling a sprayer preparatory to spraying an orchard and the child was playing about the tractor and sprayer as her father worked.

He told her to go into the house so she would not soil her dress before a trip the family was planning, and for which the youngster had just been cleaned and freshly clothed.

The child appeared to obey the command, her father said, and he continued with his work with the spray rig, to which the tractor was attached. When he had filled the sprayer and prepared to start the tractor he called for Sandra, but receiving no response believed she had gone to the house.

He looked on both sides of the tractor and about the sprayer before starting the machine and, believing that the child was not around, started off. She had been playing, unseen, immediately in front of the machine and the front tractor wheels passed over her.

The father rushed the child from her home near Brynoria, to Doctor Hale's office, and Doctor Hale took her from there to the hospital. Death came about midway on the trip from Arendtsville to Gettysburg at 6:30 o'clock.

Surviving are her father; her mother, the former Anna Belle Orner; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Orner, Biglerville R. 1; the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Knouse, Biglerville R. 1, and her great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hoke, Biglerville R. 1.

Funeral services Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the Dugan funeral home, Bendersville, by the Rev. Nevin R. Frantz officiating. Interment in Fairview cemetery, Arendtsville. Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday evening after 7 o'clock.

NO DRAFT SEEN HERE IN AUGUST

Adams county men will probably not be "drafted" before September, in the opinion of the local draft board office in the Kadel building, although it was said that a call might be received at any time notifying the board of the number of men to be furnished for military training and the date of their induction.

The "sometime in September" statement was based on the dates on which two groups of prospective service men were given their physical examinations in Harrisburg. Usually 21 days must elapse between physicals and induction, the draft board office said.

Large numbers of draftees have been "called up" in other counties, but it was explained that in these cases the physical examinations were given earlier than for Adams county men.

The office today was without any information as to how many men may be called or when.

STRABAN BOARD TO MEET AGAIN

Representatives of the Straban township school board will discuss possible transportation arrangements with New Oxford joint school system officials before reaching any final decision on the recent proposal by east end patrons that the township also become a part of the New Oxford joint system.

The township's members of the Gettysburg Joint School system's executive committee discussed with other members of that committee Monday evening the double-jointure proposal. The Straban school district is under a three-year contract with the Gettysburg jointure, it was pointed out, and one year of that period remains.

Questions concerning the township's future status with regard to possible building programs at Gettysburg or New Oxford were raised. A check of enrollment records showed only 20 pupils in the top six grades in the east end would be affected by Straban's present plan to bring all pupils in the top six grades to Gettysburg this year. The township board had decided previously that Straban pupils already enrolled at New Oxford high school would be allowed to finish their secondary education there with the township paying the tuition. Lower grade pupils attend graded schools within the township.

Ralph Guise, president of the Straban board, said another special board meeting will be called this month after the conference with New Oxford school officials.

Races and games will be depicted. There will be a "show," with the arrival of the medicine wagon and its barker and the entertaining "can-can" girls. Herman, well-known magician, who reached the height of his popularity during the era shown, will be portrayed by John D. Lippy, Jr.

SCHOOL SYSTEM COST $252,865, REPORT SHOWS

Expenditures of the Gettysburg joint school system during the year ending July 1 totalled $252,865.74, according to the annual financial report approved Monday evening by the executive committee of the Gettysburg joint school board at its meeting in the high school here.

According to the report, $121,363.85 was expended for elementary schools and $121,603.44 for the high school. Total receipts by the joint district were listed as $258,041.63.

A letter written to Melvin Kane, president of the Franklin township school board, was read. The letter noted that the Gettysburg district is going ahead with plans for additional construction and asked an answer concerning Franklin township's intentions concerning possible jointure with other school systems.

The letter pointed out, in response to requests previously made by Franklin township concerning financial benefits to be derived from entering a jointure, the township would have saved some money if it had been a member of Gettysburg joint school district last year. The district spent $16,364.19, and would have spent $18,835.45 had it been a member of the Gettysburg joint district.

Lost Reimbursement

However, by not being a member of the jointure it lost reimbursement totalling $2,442.14, thus causing a net loss of $29 as far as tuition and education are concerned. Had the township been a member of a jointure, the letter pointed out, it also would have saved a large sum because of the additional aid it would have had in paying for its transportation system.

The board was told that no answer has been received so far from the letter, but that it is believed the township has not had a board meeting since that time.

The financial report showed the expenses of instruction for the

The Sesquicentennial committee plans to have a color movie made of the celebration commemorating the 150th anniversary of the founding of Adams county. Every indication points to a fine program. Therefore the film should be a good one. However, we suggest that the committee give serious consideration to making the film in sound. The sound, if only in narrative form, could be dubbed in when the film is completed, but the recording of the voices in the program should be preserved for posterity.

OFFICIALS OF ADAMS APPLE BEING SOUGHT

Local attorneys today today said they expect the U. S. marshal at Philadelphia will be searching for Stanley W. and Emanuel L. Mann, both of Aspers, as a result of a petition placed by Adams county farmers with the U. S. District court in Altoona asking that the Adams Apple Products corporation of Aspers be declared bankrupt.

The U. S. marshal at Scranton Monday reported to the court there that he was unable to find the Manns in order to serve a process on them in the involuntary bankruptcy proceedings. Local attorneys said today they understood that the Manns, who operated the Adams Apple plant for a number of years at Aspers, have gone to Philadelphia after turning the plant over to a New York processing concern.

A petition of six Upper Adams residents to the Scranton court stated that the corporation owes "in excess of $375,000" and claims that "while insolvent and having in excess of 100 creditors" the Adams Apple corporation transferred $55,000 to the Daromann, Inc., a corporation principally owned by the Manns and sold the plant at Aspers together with machinery and stock to a New York canning concern for $259,390.

The New York concern which is named in the petition as purchasing the plant is believed to be the Duffy-Mott corporation of New York. The petitioners asking the firm be declared bankrupt and the amount they say is owing them since last fall for tomatoes, apples and other products are John B. Wenk, $500; Waybright Black, $550; Junior B. Taylor, $150, all of Aspers R. 1; Clarence Oleyer, $550; Herbert Orner, $250, and Victor Diveley, $900, all of Biglerville.

It is believed that the Aspers concern may owe about 300 growers varying amounts for produce received from them at the plant.

By RELMAN MORIN
Tokyo, Wednesday, Aug. 16 (AP)—Red troops with tanks burst out of the Naktong defense line today below Changnyong and surged to points seven miles east of the river.

They overran segments of the U. S. 24th Infantry Division in bitter fighting that piled up casualties on both sides.

General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo early Wednesday announced his usual morning report would be omitted because there had been no change in the South Korean situation. The headquarters war summaries usually are hours behind field dispatches.

Bloody But Indecisive
The allied resistance to the Communists had slowed the Red war timetable. North Korean prisoners said the schedule called for capture of Taegu, South Korea's emergency capital, on Tuesday, fifth anniversary of V-J day and of Korea's liberation from Japan.

The Changnyong fighting was bloody but indecisive. Thirty miles northward along the Snaking river U. S. and Red troops were reported throwing everything at each other but not getting anywhere.

A field dispatch said the Reds surged six or seven miles east of the Naktong on their deepest penetration in the Changnyong sector.

"It May Take Time"
The Red gain was considered serious but an American divisional staff officer said: "We are still confident we can push the gooks back across the river but it may take time."

One Red battalion fought desperately to link up with guerrillas behind the Americans.

A Russian-made Yak plane, on the first North Korean combat mission in days, dropped two 500 pound bombs on Masan, southern port, and strafed the important communications center to the rear of U. S.

Front line reports said the Reds at Changnyong, 23 miles southwest of Taegu, rubbed out some of the gains made by the hard fighting 24th Division Monday.

Red Objective
Taegu is the south republic's emergency capital and objective of 60,000 Reds poised in the Waegwan sector, 12 miles northwest of Taegu.

Red tanks and armored cars hit hard in the Waegwan area. They availed themselves of a Russian-style submerged suspension bridge to move a regiment, about 3,000 men, and tanks over the river against South Korean defenders. Such bridges are built just below the water's surface to hide them from observer detection and are capable of supporting armored river-crossings.

A U. S. 8th Army communique issued at 9:05 p.m. Tuesday (6:05 a.m., EST) said the South Koreans successfully counterattacked the river-crossers near Waegwan and found that Allied air support presumably had knocked out Red armored cars.

Storm "Little Casino"
Intelligence officers were unable to learn whether the Waegwan crossing was the beginning of the expected smash by 60,000 Communist troops massed there or whether the Reds were feeling South Korean lines for a weak spot. As the critical river front battle in the center shamed up, gallant U. S. negro foot soldiers stormed the "Little Casino" redoubt seven miles northwest of Masan. Masan is a south coast port 27 air miles west of Pusan. No. 1 U. S. supply base on the southeast tip of the peninsula.

The fight went into hand-to-hand combat with bayonets and rifle stocks used as clubs. The negroes, capturing the craggy heights, freed some 200 wounded U. S. artillerymen who had been pinned down by the Communists in last week's westward drive to Chinnju by Marines and Army infantrymen.

CHAIR CANING CLASS PLANNED

Organization of a class for free instruction in chair caning is one of the activities growing out of the recent "get-together" of Biglerville women. It was announced today.

Mrs. S. A. Ehlman, who gave a demonstration of the art at the "get-together," has agreed that if sufficient interest is shown she will teach a class in the borough. A number expressed interest in such instruction at the "get-together" and as a result the class will be offered. Those interested are asked to call Mrs. Ehlman so that a list can be made for the class may be established.

It is established, those attending the class will be asked to bring chairs from their homes that need cane seats or backs placed in them. They will be used in class work.

Another activity discussed at the "get-together" is being scheduled for consideration again this evening at a meeting to be held at the Biglerville grade school at 8 o'clock. At that time all those interested in planning for about the foundation walls of the school will meet.

Await Miracle In Wisconsin Parish

Necedah, Wis., Aug. 15 (AP)—Roman Catholic Bishop John Treacy early today cancelled his order forbidding special religious services at the parish of the woman who claims she will be visited by the Virgin Mary at noon.

Earlier the bishop of La Crosse had banned anything more than the two regular masses at St. Francis church in Necedah. Today is the Feast of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary, a holy day requiring attendance at mass by Catholics. The bishop's order had meant many of the thousands streaming into the village might have been unable to attend regular services.

With the command rescinded, visiting priests started saying mass at 4 a.m. in St. Francis' church and in the parish hall.

Meanwhile, the gaunt, prematurely aged mother of seven children waited for what she maintains will be her seventh visit from the Virgin.

Baltimore Man Is Nabbed After Crash

Otto Henry Fraas, Baltimore, spent part of Sunday in the Carroll county, Md., jail at Westminster pending deposit of $127.90 collateral for hearing on charges of reckless driving and operating while under the influence of intoxicants. His arrest occurred in Westminster about 1:45 a.m., after he had sideswiped two automobiles, one in Littlestown, and the other in Westminster. The Littlestown car, parked on S. Queen street, Littlestown, was owned by Elmer Duetters, Littlestown.

Maryland State Police Corp. Glenn Markle had previously received a telephone call from Littlestown to be on the lookout for a car which had struck a parked machine in that town and kept going. Waiting at the Westminster town limits, Corp. Markle soon observed the wanted Buick sedan which sped by. Before the State officer could halt the fleeing machine, it struck another parked car in Westminster. Corp. Markle soon caught up with and stopped the driver who wanted "to wrestle a little." He was subsequently jailed, however, and succeeded in arranging collateral later in the day.

Attending the couple were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tate, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Arthur Starner. The bride wore a baby blue nylon crepe street length dress and a corsage of white gladioli.

Following the wedding, the couple left on a trip to Virginia. They are now residing in newly furnished rooms in Idaville.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Biglerville high school with the class of 1948 and is employed at the Knouse foods plant at Peach Glen.

Martha Louise Carey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meade Carey, of Gardners R. 2, became the bride of Robert Wayne Cornman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cornman, Carlisle R. 3, Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Evangelical United Brethren church, Mt. Holly Springs. Rev. C. Wesley Wilson performed the double ring ceremony. Attendees were Mr. and Mrs. Leon Cornman, brother and sister-in-law of the groom.

The couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and Canada. After their return they will reside at the bride's home at Gardners R. 2.

Operators of the Quebec said she was a "complete loss."

A few among the 400 passengers and approximately 200 crew members on the Quebec reported minor injuries. A considerable amount of baggage was destroyed as the ship burned to the water's edge about four hours after she docked at this resort town at the mouth of the Saguenay river.

EYLER'S CASE IN

the possession of Bricker.

In the replevin action heard Monday, Eyler was represented by Attorney Daniel W. Long and Bricker by Attorney George S. Black and Attorney Eugene R. Hartman, of Gettysburg.

Eyler, in filing his complaint, said he became owner of the disputed bull on November 24, 1949, purchasing it from Lawrence Fidler, of Gettysburg. Four days later—on November 28—Eyler said, the bull escaped from an enclosure at his farm. On December 10, Eyler continued, he located the bull at the Bricker farm and filed the replevin action after Bricker failed to surrender the animal.

Bricker, in contesting the litigation, denied the bull in question was ever in Eyler's ownership. He said he purchased the bull on November 28 of last year at the Green-castle Livestock Market from Harry E. Carbaugh, of Gettysburg R. 1. Carbaugh, in turn, bought the bull at the Greencastle market on August 1 and had had the animal in his custody continuously from that date until he sold it on November 28, Bricker averred.

Carbaugh was acquitted by an Adams county jury of taking the bull from Eyler.

MUSIAL LEADS LOOP BATTERS

New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals holds a 13-point lead over Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson in the National League batting derby.

Musial, for the third straight week, is hitting .361. The St. Louis slugger has carved out 141 hits—the most in the league—in 391 at bats. He also tops the field in doubles, with 34.

Robinson, on the other hand, saw his average dip again, this time 12 points to .348. Two weeks ago the defending champion was leading at .370. That's a 22-point drop.

Johnny Hopp of the Pittsburgh Pirates replaced St. Louis' Enos Slaughter in third place. Hopp, a pleasant surprise for the last-place Pirates, is hitting .331. Figures include games of Sunday, August 13. Chicago's Andy Pafko climbed one notch to fourth on his 323 mark. Carlo Furillo is one point behind the Chicago handy man with 322. The Brooklyn flycatcher was tied for eighth last week.

Sports Roundup

By WILL GRIMSLEY
New York, Aug. 15 (AP)—We haven't enrolled yet in Mrs. Figure-flatter's School of Fashion and Designing, but that is not to say we don't think it's an excellent idea. We do.

For a long time we have felt it is not enough for the well-rounded sports writer today to know how to describe an athletic combat. He also must be conversant with things sartorial, be ready with a quick, fresh word on what the athletes do and don't wear.

Why, just in the past few days the news wires carried a report that gorgeous Gussy Moran might surrender to the lure of professional tennis gold—if enough of it is offered.

The curvaceous California miss suddenly has become the No. 1 desirable of the pro promoters—more so than Wimbledon champion Budge Patty, say, or Louise Brown, perhaps the best female tennis player extant.

Miss Moran is a very nicely arranged brunette package who hits a fair tennis ball. But as far as we can ascertain she never has won any of the big ones. The pros want her because she is given to wearing lace on her tennis pants.

Miss Moran became the sensation at Wimbledon last year, because when she stooped for a low ball, a delicate bit of fringe peeked out from her flared skirt. The tournament immediately became secondary.

When Wimbledon came up again this year, was anybody interested in Miss Moran's forehead or her American twist service? Not so you could tell it. We read reads, decorated with pictures, of her new outfit—a bloomer-type affair, with pleats, no less.

When Gussy played in India—or was it Egypt?—she excited the natives with a pair of provocative black shorts. They raised such a commotion that it became necessary for her to issue a communique later insisting they weren't underthings at all, just a regulation garment of another color.

Now sports writers properly equipped for their job would have recognized the distinction right away.

Staid old St. Andrews, Scotland, which worships at the shrine of golf, didn't enthrone this spring over Frank Stranahan's crisp two-iron shots or Willie Turnesa's deadly wedge play.

The burr-tongued Scots became enthralled over a mellow-larynxed American crooner in a flowered shirt, Crosby by name, and a little round Georgia man with a flair for "plaid caps and loud-colored shorts, named of Dynamite Goodloe.

Top Trotters Meet At Illinois Fair

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 15 (AP)—Stars Pride, which finished second in the Hambletonian after piling up a string of victories, and Dudley Hanover share the spotlight in today's grand circuit card at the Illinois state fair.

Star's Pride is one of 14 speedsters in the Abe Lincoln trotting stake for $8,800. Dudley Hanover, from the Hayes Fair Acres stables of DuQuoin, Ill., heads the field of 12 in the review futurity 3 year old trot for $12,602.

Kilroy, from the Arden Homestead stable, Anderson Hanover, entry of A. S. Nyland and San Juan Bautista, Calif., and Laurelette, owned by K. D. Owen of Houston, Tex., are among the other entries in the Abe Lincoln.

Irish Hal, another K. D. Owen entry; Mighty Sun, from C. & C. C. of Shafter, Calif.; Castleton Farm's Seattle Hanover, and Victory Acres' Victory Jacky appear to be strong contenders in the pace.

INDIANS EDGE DETROIT 3 TO 2; CUBS NIP CARDS

By RALPH RODEN

(By The Associated Press)
Early Wynn's contribution to the Cleveland Indians pennant drive is even greater than his record indicates.

The 30-year-old righthander has turned in 13 victories but seven of them have been over the other first division teams—Detroit, New York and Boston.

Only Bob Lemon, ace righthander, has a better record on the Cleveland team. Lemon goes after his 19th victory today in the final of a two-game series against the pace-setting Tigers.

Wynn considerably brightened the Indians pennant outlook last night as he turned back the Tigers, 3-2, in a ten-inning thriller before 60,120 fans in Cleveland's Municipal stadium. The triumph moved the runner-up tribe to within 2½ games of the Bengals.

Dramatic Victory

The game was one of the most dramatic of the season. The Indians scored a run in the second inning and Wynn nursed this slender margin until the ninth.

In the ninth, with one out, Hoot Evers beat out a slow bouncer over the mound for a single. Johnny Groth followed with a home run. The vast throng began to move silently toward the exit gates as Hal Newhouse retired the first two Indians in the last of the ninth. But Al (Flip) Rosen brought them back in a hurry by socking a home run to tie the score.

Allie Clark got things underway in the tenth with a double to right. Speedy Bob Avila went into run for Clark. Jim Hegan was intentionally passed and Wynn sacrificed the runners along Newhouse then purposely walked Ed Boone to load the bases.

Cubs Nip Cards
Manager Lou Boudreau then went against "the book" and sent left-handed hitting Dale Mitchell up to bat for righthander hitting Bob Kennedy. Mitchell, a fast man getting down to first base, sent a high bouncer to short. Connie Berry fired the ball home but the speedy Avila slid under the throw to win the game.

The game was the only one in the American league the other teams were not scheduled to play.

Action in the National league also was slight. In the only games played, the Chicago Cubs nipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-6, and the improving Cincinnati Reds thrashed the Pittsburgh Pirates, 13-8.

The Cubs staged a last ditch rally to whip the Cards, scoring twice in the ninth after the Red Birds had taken the lead with two in the eighth.

The Reds scored 11 runs in the third inning to breeze home against the Pirates. The Reds collected only five hits in their big inning but made the most of four walks and two hit batsmen.

New York—Ted Schroeder, Gardnar Mulloy, Bill Talbert and Tom Brown were selected as the United States Davis Cup team.

Brookline, Mass.—Budge Patty and Ted Schroeder were forced to default in National doubles because of latter's sprained ankle, but all other teams scored victories.

New York—Jake LaMotta agreed to defend his middleweight title against Laurent Dauthuille of France in Detroit on September 13.

Pick Charles To Eliminate Beshore
Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 15 (AP)—Ring-rusty but confident Ezzard Charles returns to action tonight, an almost prohibitive favorite to blast longshot Freddie Beshore out of his path to a lucrative crack at Joe Louis.

Sharp-shooting Ezzard is rated at least 1 to 5 to belt the day lights out of Beshore and hold on to his NBA heavyweight championship. The 15-round title fight starts at 9 p.m. (EST) in Memorial auditorium. Seined by a rib and heart injury for almost six months, the 29-year-old champion aims to renew his ring campaign in a different role.

Hitherto an efficient but cautious performer, Charles plans to turn "Tiger" tonight and gun for an eye-catching and quick kayo. A spectator job against the 26-year-old Harrisburg, Pa., challenger will bolster Charles' box office appeal against the come-backing Louis. The International Boxing club wants to match the two in Yankee Stadium September 27.

KELL HOLDING LEAD AT BAT

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—George Kell of Detroit is still a step ahead of Cleveland's Larry Doby for the American league batting leadership. Kell's average, including games of Sunday, is .355. Doby has .351. A week ago Kell was hitting .353, Doby .350.

The Detroit third baseman also has registered the most hits, 153, and the most doubles, 33.

Others in the top ten of the league are Bill Goodman, Boston, .348; Al Zarilla, Boston, .340; Walt Drobo, Boston, and Hoot Evers, Detroit, tied for fifth place with .329; Phil Rizzuto, New York, .320; Vic Wertz, Detroit, .319; Johnny Pesky, Boston, .317; and Dom DiMaggio, Boston, and Johnny Groth, Detroit, tied for tenth with .316.

Verne Stephens of Boston has scored the most runs, 96. Drobo is the RBI leader with 111. Doerr and Gene Woodling of New York are tied for the most triples, nine, and Al Rosen of Cleveland is the home run leader with 30. Dom DiMaggio has stolen the most bases, 12.

The leading pitcher is Dizzy Trout with an .818 average on nine victories and two defeats. Vic Raschi of New York has the most strikeouts, 113.

RANSOM WINS RICH GOLF TITLE

Chicago, Aug. 15 (AP)—"Daddy" Henry Ransom never had it so good before.

He made $11,000 yesterday in polishing off Detroit's Chick Harbert by three strokes, 69-72, in a playoff for the Tam O'Shanter "world" pro golf championship.

Ransom's first prize was a treasure chest unmatched in golf history. Harbert's solace was $5,000. The difference of $6,000 was decided in a four-hour match followed by 10,000 awed spectators.

The 39-year-old Ransom, who winters in Dallas and registers on the tourney wheel out of the St. Andrews club near Chicago, took an eagle 3 on the ninth hole and followed it up with four consecutive birdies. He rimmed a 10 foot putt on No. 10, which would have meant another eagle.

In summation, Ransom went six strokes under par on five consecutive holes. He rolled in 12, 13 and 15 foot putts and dropped a 70 foot pitch shot.

The $11,000 skyrocketed Ransom from 10th on the pro money-winning list to second with a total of $18,885 for the season. Sam Snead still is well ahead with $29,948. Jim Ferrier dropped from second to an unofficial third with $18,771.

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS
THAT INWARD URGE

We are each born into a world of projects and wonder. Endless generations have contributed to us in one way and another. Urges sprout out, like the roots of a tree, seeking nourishment and substance with which to support the one great urge of one's heart.

It is highly important that none of us neglects these urges, especially the ones that promise happiness and which build the fires of incentive and enthusiasm within us.

I have a friend who was born with an artistic urge. He wanted most of all to be an artist and thus to express himself, but his father considered this foolish and a waste of life. He insisted that he go to college and become a lawyer, which the boy resented. He went to college but paid little attention to his studies. He wanted to draw, and draw he did! But so strong was the father's resentment that he refused further to aid that boy, and created a hatred that the boy never got over. He left college and continued to draw until he became a famous cartoonist—and was happy.

I have another friend, whose father resented his son's desire to be a musician. He wanted to play a violin and so saved his money and got one. The father discovered this and took it away from him. He bought some tools and told him to get busy with them, but he would not be thwarted—the boy. He, too, became a famous cartoonist for a big newspaper, but with money coming in he bought another violin, and to this day plays it to soothe his soul. He was my guest for a few days, in my summer camp, and played it to the tune of the stars, and the wash of the waves.

Natural wants and urges should never be neglected. They are the guide posts to our success and happiness in this world. Wealthy souls are all too rare in this world. God's voice and encouragement are always near to that one whose freedom of choice has been given a clear road ahead. It is even more profitable to aim at something that you want, and miss it, than to aim at something you don't want—and get it!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Kindred Spirits."

WHAT A FISHERMAN THINKS ABOUT

Watching a deer come down to drink And, undisturbed, having time to think—
Mar from the city's cry and hue—"The forests," thought he, "are peopled, too.

"Teeming with life are the hills and dales;
With the mother does and the antlered males;
With creatures large and creatures small,
And the Lord has made them one and all.

"There are hidden paths which they know full well,
Where in homes which suit them best they dwell.
They have hurts to fear as their lives they plan,
But the greatest of all is their fear of man.

"One splash of an oar and that frightened deer
Would turn and run lest I draw too near.
One glimpse of me and he'd take to flight—
There is much to think of when fish don't bite.

BIG BATTLERS STUDY INDIA'S PLAN FOR PEACE

Lake Success, Aug. 15 (AP)—The Security Council's big battlers today studied an Indian proposal to let the small nations seek a path to peace in the Korean war.

As the council recessed until Thursday afternoon, Indian Delegate Sir Benegal N. Rau suggested that the six elected, non-permanent members might be better able to find a solution in public and private meetings at which cold warring Russian and American delegates were not present.

Rau suggested that such a "little council" study "all resolutions or proposals that have been or may be presented for a peaceful and just settlement in Korea and submit their recommendations to the council by a specified date."

Ignored By Malik
The western big three—France, Britain and the United States—gave the idea a cordial reception in principle but said they would like to hear more details.

However, Russia's delegate and the current council president, Jacob A. Malik, made no reference to the Indian suggestion in statements lashing back at Norwegian and French attacks on the way he has been filling the chair.

The council yesterday continued—without solution—its procedural war of words over the Russian-opposed proposal to let a South Korean delegate sit in on the sessions.

Continuing the western counter to Malik's speech-making, both the Norwegian and French delegates said the Russian president—by failing to make ruling for the council to act on—had not fulfilled his presidential functions. France's Jean Chauvel accused Malik of a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde act.

Not "Expansionists"
The "little council" would be composed of India, Yugoslavia and Norway, all of which have recognized the Chinese Communists, and Cuba, Ecuador and Egypt, which have not.

The Communist Chinese question would figure only in considering the Soviet resolution on seating North Korean representatives because it also calls for seating a Chinese Communist, at least as an interested party.

Rau said none of the group could be accused of having expansionist aims.

SCHOOL SYSTEM

elementary schools to be $101,160.31 and the cost of instruction in the high school was $104,288.38.

Salaries Top Item
Largest single expenditures of the school system were for salaries with $95,591.61 paid out to the elementary teachers and $82,363.40 to high school teachers.

Elementary textbooks cost the system $2,219.08 and high school texts $2,745.15. Supplies for instruction cost $2,599.57 for elementary and $3,818.60 for secondary schools.

It cost $18,470.70 to operate the schools, $9,099.62 for the elementary schools and $9,371.08 for the high school. Into that expense go such items as salaries for janitors, coal, water, heat, light and the like. Maintenance of the schools cost $6,043.99.

Cafeteria Balance
The yearly auditors' report for the cafeteria, prepared by Auditors S. R. Eisenhart, John W. Hewitt and Percy Smith, showed total receipts of $7,353.80 and expenditures of $6,826.32, leaving a balance of $527.48.

The expenditures included $1,479.22 for salaries, $5,125.71 for provisions, and $221.39 for maintenance. The cafeteria was reported as having $3,679.36 in a savings account.

Gettysburg Ice and Storage was voted as the concern to provide milk and ice cream for the cafeteria this year. Each year the purveyor of the products is changed in order to provide an opportunity for all dairies in the section to sell to the school system.

Leo Riley, Cumberland township, was renamed as attendance officer for another year.

A lengthy discussion on the new regulations regarding school buses and school bus stop signs was held, with the directors reaching no decision on whether to place stop signs for the buses.

Dr. Lloyd C. Keefeauver, borough superintendent of schools, reported that a large influx of first graders is expected this year, and noted that the first grade rooms may be crowded.

May Shift Students
As a result of an expected crowded condition in the first grade in Cumberland township it may be necessary to transport some of the students in the higher grades to Gettysburg, he added.

A school population report prepared by Superintendent Keefeauver showed that there will in all probability be 888 students in the first six grades of the jointure when school opens September 7. Of that number 173 will be in grade one, 182 in grade two, 161 in the third grade, 140 in fourth, 111 in fifth and 121 in sixth. The seventh grade pupils are expected to number 156, eighth, 130; ninth, 126; tenth, 132; eleventh, 90, and twelfth, 79. The numbers are for the districts in the jointure alone and do not include students from outside the jointure who attend Gettysburg schools.

Princess Elizabeth Gives Birth To Daughter Today

BY CHARLES WHITING

London, Aug. 15 (AP)—Princess Elizabeth, heiress presumptive to the British throne, gave birth today to her second child—a daughter.

The baby came at 11:50 a.m. (5:50 a.m., EST). An official announcement was issued one hour and four minutes later.

The royal birth provides a sister playmate for 21-month-old Prince Charles, next in line to his mother in succession to the British throne. The new princess becomes third in line of succession.

Queen On Hand
A bulletin issued by the royal physicians said: "Her royal highness Princess Elizabeth, duchess of Edinburgh, was safely delivered of a princess at 11:50 a.m. Her royal highness and her daughter are both doing well."

The bulletin was signed by Sir William Gilliat, the princess' gynecologist, and by John H. Peel, Vernon P. Hall and Sir John Weir, the royal family's physician.

Queen Elizabeth had arrived at Clarence House just a few minutes before the birth of her second grandchild.

The little princess was born in Princess Elizabeth's Queen Anne style bedroom in Clarence House.

Hold Song Service
"Fellowship Through Songs" was the theme of the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of St. John's Lutheran church, held on Sunday evening. Miss Jean Yealy was leader for the meeting. An informal discussion was held, with a question and answer program, together with a brief history of some of the well known songs. The call to worship was given by the leader and the Misses Betty and Elsie Yealy sang the invocation. There was a period for singing of favorite hymns. A reading "I Am Music" was given by Helen Myers. Evelyn Harget read several verses of Psalm 95, which were explained by the leader and the group sang "For the Beauty of the Earth." Miss Harget also read several verses of Psalm 98 which were likewise explained by Miss Yealy after which the group sang "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind."

There will be no services at St. John's Lutheran church next Sunday, and the Christian Endeavor meeting will also be omitted. On August 27, the group will join with the Adams County Christian Endeavor Union in the hillside service to be held at St. John's church.

On September 3, Miss Helen Myers will be in charge of the weekly meeting. In case of rain on August 27, the hillside service will be held on September 3, and the September 3 meeting of the local group will be advanced one week.

Thursday of this week, the St. John's society will have a hay ride and Wiener roast. Those attending will meet at the J. Roger Yealy home on West King street at 6:30 o'clock, and will go to Meadowview, near Union Mills. The evening's program will include a softball game.

The following from Littlestown attended the annual Redding reunion held at Marsh Creek Heights on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. John L. Redding, Mrs. Susan Redding and Miss Mary Redding, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Redding, Mr. and Mrs. Clair Redding, son, Ronald, Miss Ruth Ann Redding, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crabbs, Mrs. Mary O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Altoft, daughter, Miss Evelyn Altoft, and Ralph Bish, Hanover.

The second August meeting of the Littlestown Lions club will be held on Thursday night at 7 o'clock. It will be a family night meeting and will take place in the picnic grove adjoining Christ Reformed church, near town. The Sight Conservation and Blind committee composed of Ralph L. Staley, Henry E. Waltman and Allen E. Weikert will be assisted by Holman L. Sell, Paul L. Hollinger and William W. Thomas in making arrangements.

A meeting of the senior Boy Scouts will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the State Bank building instead of at the home of George Ditlow, as previously announced.

An appreciation party for the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Myers will be held tomorrow evening beginning at 6:30 o'clock in the grove at St. Luke's church. White Hall Dr. Myers has completed his work as Lutheran pastor at the church. Members and former members and friends of both the Lutheran and Reformed congregations are invited to participate and an old fashioned fried chicken picnic supper will be held. Mrs. Arlene Krumrine and Mrs. Roscoe Klinefelter comprise the committee in charge of the program being arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Sell, Allentown, spent the week-end at the home of Mr. Sell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley R. Sell, and family.

BIG QUESTION ON KOREA YET NOT ANSWERED

BY JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 15 (AP)—Many of the top leaders in this country think the U. S. army should occupy all Korea, if the Americans whip the North Koreans in the present fighting.

But, so far as can be learned, no decision has been made on this. There's a good reason why the U. S. might not be able to carry out such a decision, if it were made.

The reason is Russia. If Russia sees the North Koreans losing, it may send its own troops in to occupy all North Korea down to the 38th parallel of latitude, which divides North from South.

War With Russia? If that happens, we'll have to stop south of the 38th parallel anyway, whether we like it or not. Unless we're ready to go to war with Russia, for crossing the line then would mean that.

After World War II Russia took over North Korea down to the 38th parallel, set up a Communist Korean government, armed it, and then got out.

We took over Korea south of the line, helped set up the South Korean republic, left it practically un-armed, and then got out. This left the North Koreans free to attack the South when they were ready. They did. And then the U. S. moved back in.

Not Easy Problem If the U. S. whips the North Koreans and drives them north of the 38th parallel, but itself stops south of it, then the North Koreans once more will be free to re-arm.

So long as we kept an army in South Korea, the North Koreans probably would not attempt another attack. But how long would this country be willing to keep an army in South Korea?

True, this country could arm the South Koreans and get out. But if war started between North and South again, then all the present shooting and loss of life would be for nothing.

On the other hand, if the U. S.—acting for the United Nations—occupied all of Korea it could disarm the Communists, try to stamp them out, and maybe set up a single, non-Communist government for all Korea. But—

Might Lead To War What would Russia do? Sit idly by while the U. S. took over all Korea, which is smack up against the Communist territory of China and Russia?

Or would it once more move into North Korea, taking it over down to the 38th parallel, as it did before? The Russians could argue—

U. S. occupation of Korea would give this country a strong foothold and base in Asia, for use in case of any future war with Russia.

The Russians might point out that the U. S. would hardly sit idly by if the Russians tried to occupy Mexico or Canada, which are smack up against the United States.

Once the Russians moved into North Korea, they could not be driven out except by force, which would be war.

This story raises more questions than it answers. At this moment the answers haven't appeared.

SOME DRAFT QUOTAS OUT

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—Local draft boards operating under the Altona, Erie and Wilkes-Barre stations today had their induction and pre-induction physical examination quotas.

The induction quotas represent the boards' share of the September call while the pre-induction physical examination figures are for the October quota.

Henry M. Gross, state draft director, said the first call was limited to the three centers in order to avoid a jam-up of inductees at any one station. The September draftees will report for induction from August 28 to September 5.

Other local boards will be sent their quotas for September as soon as they are prepared, Gross said.

Gross also disclosed that 1,838 men were accepted between July 27 and August 10 of 5,624 ordered to report for physical examinations. Local boards actually delivered 4,420 men.

Of the 1,204 which the boards failed to deliver, 515 were listed as failing to report; 16 had moved; 137 were transferred to another board, 139 were married and 264 reconsidered by the board.

Gross also said most boards are now down to the 22-year age group.

Danville, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP)—State police are trying to find out who fired the shot which struck and killed five-year old Lucille Marie Kurlowicz at nearby Knoebels Grove where her family was picnicking.

The girl died Sunday in Bloomsburg hospital several hours after a stray bullet struck her, Coroner John D. Evans of Columbia county reported.

Harrisburg, Aug. 15 (AP)—John J. Stakem, 20, of Williamstown, was killed Sunday when an automobile overturned on Route 22 six miles from Harrisburg. He was a passenger, Joseph B. Ganly, 19, Tower Hill, suffered lacerations of both legs in the crash.

Chapter 7

"Make 'Rock' manager," echoed Johnny, a look of astonishment on his face as he gazed down his outstretched leg in its plaster cast at his sister. "Whatever gave you the idea he'd make a good manager?"

"I know he will, Johnny. Baseball's a funny game. It takes a man to manage a team. I can't get into the locker room with the men and plan strategy. They don't look up to me as they do to 'Rock.' He doesn't know it, but I know he was the one who straightened out this team. He's responsible for keeping us in the running. I feel, if given the chance, he'll make a great manager."

"We'll-I-I, I don't know, Sis. You've got a point there. Those 10 years' experience in the big leagues will help too." With a big grin on his face, Johnny concluded, "You can go back to being treasurer—and after all, he'll be in the family soon."

Her face aglow, Betty hastened to kiss her brother and say, "You'll never regret it, Johnny. I'm sure of that!"

When Betty returned to "Rock's" room, she found him, rather shaky on his legs, but up and dressed.

"It's lucky for you that you're here," he said with a grin. "I was just going after you."

"Oh, 'Rock,' should you be up so soon?" asked Betty as he took her in his arms.

"I'm fit as a fiddle, dearest. Just goes to show how well you've done your job of getting me into condition."

"Please sit down, 'Rock.' I want to talk to you," she said gravely.

"Okay, but only if you'll sit close to me."

Betty, without a word, sat down beside him, and twining her fingers through his, faced him.

"'Rock,' have you ever thought of what will become of you once your playing days are over?"

"Just like woman," teased "Rock."

"Afraid I won't be able to support you, Honey?"

"No, I'm serious, dear. Have you ever thought of managing a team?"

"I suppose I have, dearest," "Rock" answered thoughtfully. "Every player dreams of managing a team some time. Some day my chance will come. When it does, if I'm ready, I'll grab it."

"Now that my great big he-man has spoken," Betty said archly, leaning forward in her seat, "may a little girl offer a suggestion?"

"'Rock' grunted something unintelligible, looked at her and nodded.

"Shoot, little girl," he said. "I'm all ears."

"Well, here it is! How about managing the Lions?"

As "Rock" looked up in surprise, Betty held up her hand and said, "Now, wait, darling. Before you say anything, hear me out. I think you are ready now to manage the Lions. I've talked it over with my brother and he agrees with me. Johnny will be out for the rest of the season, and perhaps longer. As for me, as a manager I make a good treasurer, and that's what I want to be. Most of the men look up to you. They'll follow you and respect your leadership. Of course, you'll have a little trouble with some of them, just as I've had, but you'll know how to manage them. You'll have complete charge and you'll be able to do as you please about any of the men. With your experience, you'll be able to mold the men into a hard-hitting, scrappy bunch of ball players and perhaps get us to the top of the league. Now, what do you say, 'Rock?' Here's your chance to find out just how good a manager you'll make," she said, smiling sweetly at him.

"'Rock' just sat there and stared at her wide-eyed for a moment. He blinked a couple of times and then his whole face lit up with smiles.

"I'll do it, sweetheart. I'll do it," he said, embracing her.

"I've held on as long as I could," she sighed softly against his shoulder. "It will be a relief to know that you are managing the team."

When next the Lions took to the field, "Rock" was installed as player-manager. The stands were abuzz with excitement, but in the press coop back of home plate the baseball writers, always able to take things in stride, were talking about everything but the news of "Rock's" appointment. All except Reynolds of the Post Telegraph. He showed more interest in the situation out on the field than in the chit-chat going on in the booth. He stared forward-browed at "Rock" who was donning the catcher's gear. With a shake of his head, he crushed out his cigarette butt.

"What do you think, 'Dad,'?" he asked of Don Wilson of the Courier-Intelligencer, who was seated next to him.

Wilson, dean of the sports writers and affectionately known as "Dad" by the boys, punched a key on his typewriter, and hauled the carriage across for a paragraph space.

"Who, me?" he then asked.

"Yeah, you," Reynolds nodded without taking his eyes off "Rock."

"What do you think, 'Dad'?"

Wilson thoughtfully lit up a cigarette.

"Well, I don't know," he said finally. "The act of living is going up something fierce, but I doubt that it's due to our helping out those foreigners. After all, we only get half the actual truth, and—"

"Hey! Hold up on that stuff,

"Hold on there, youngster!" he yelled, and grabbed at "Rock's" sleeve as he started to turn away. "You may be the manager of this team, but I work here, too. I caught that ball, and that's that. But as far as getting any signal from you is concerned, I didn't see any, I swear it!"

"'Rock' looked as though he was about to make a retort, but instead, turned away and dropped his gear on the top step of the dugout.

"Okay," he said. "You made the catch. Let's drop it."

"'Rock' watched Johnston go up to take his cuts at the ball, but his mind was not on the game. He was thinking back over his scene with Sanger. Had he lied, or told the truth? It seemed that from the moment he had taken over as manager, the outfielder had had a chip on his shoulder. "Rock" resented the manner in which Sanger always addressed him as kid, or youngster, or son, and he wasn't cooperating one bit more than he had to. Had he hoped to get the job himself?

Johnston went out on strikes and "Rock" strode up to the plate. The anger and sense of uncertainty that coursed through him at least served to sharpen his batting eye. He didn't waste time looking over the first pitch hurled, but swung viciously and jammed the ball to deep center for three bases. But there he died a lingering death. To the grandstands it looked as though the next two Lion batters were trying hard enough to get on, but to "Rock" it seemed they just didn't have that extra something that drives in runs and wins ball games. Yes, that was it! No team spirit. They were just going through the motions, and it was his fault, or was it? The key was Sanger! If only he could straighten him out, the rest of the team would fall in line.

As those and countless other black thoughts raced through his mind, "Rock" let out a deep sigh, and gave a slight shake of his head.

"Well, about the best you can do, boy, is keep throwing 'em," he said to himself.

Chapter 8

Down on the field "Rock" was having his troubles. As soon as he reached the Lions' dugout he sensed an undercurrent of hostility—and of indifference. There was nothing said, nothing done that he could lay his hands on, but it was there. But for five innings of a game that was a little on the dull side for the few thousand fans who had paid their way in, nothing really happened.

As "Rock" crouched down behind the plate he took a good look about the field. His lips tightened instantly. Sanger was playing the hitter straight away in right. He signalled the veteran outfielder to move over toward the line. Then he flashed for an outside pitch. Roman, the Lions' pitcher, uncorked a beautiful hook and the batter watched it curve by for a strike.

"'Rock' nodded, gently lobbed the ball back, and signalled for another of the same. Roman seemed to slip a little as he came down off the rubber. Instead of a hook, his throw turned out to be a Sunday pitch, waist high and right down the middle. The batter swung and belted a high towering fly dead on the right field foul line. With the crack of the bat, "Rock" automatically whipped off his mask and went out in front of the plate, eyes fastened on Sanger.

A dark scowl crossed his brow and unconsciously he viciously slapped his fist into his mitt. Sanger was streaking across the outfield toward the foul line. His legs pumped like piston rods, and in a seemingly last desperate lunge he flung out his gloved hand and snared the ball in a catch that brought the fans in the grandstands screaming to their feet. "What a catch!" came thundering in, and to tumultuous applause, Sanger returned to his position. Grimly, "Rock" strode behind the plate and crouched, once again.

Sanger's catch seemed to fire Roman. He settled down and fanned the next batter on three screaming pitched balls. And then a very weak pop fly to third took care of the third and final out.

As the Lions came trotting in, "Rock" deliberately took his time stripping off his catcher's gear. He waited for Sanger, coming in from right field. The veteran fielder, apparently well satisfied with his play, started to trot on by him, but "Rock" reached out and tapped him on the arm.

"Your best gal up there in the stands today, Sanger?" he asked.

The fielder pulled up short, chewed heavily on a wad of gum and looked in astonishment at the manager.

"Huh?" he grunted. "Just what are you driving at?"

"I was just wondering why you went to so much trouble to catch that ball the hard way," "Rock" said quietly. "That was a honey of a catch, but if the batter had flattened it out just a wee bit, it would have gone for two bases, and you would have been out a few bucks' fine."

Sanger's eyes opened wide for an instant, and then narrowed beligerently.

"Who, me?" he cried. "What's eating you, kid? I caught the ball, didn't I? I made the out!"

"That's right, you got it," "Rock" nodded patiently, but there was little patience in his eyes. "But if you had moved over as I signaled, you would have caught it without moving a step."

"You signaled?" the veteran cried. "You kidding somebody, son? You didn't flash my wad, and I was watching you, knowing how that batter usually pulls to the right. But I didn't get any signal. So I stayed put because you're running the team. Huh! What do you mean you signaled?"

"'Rock's" lips tightened as he took a deep breath and looked Sanger straight in the eye.

"You heard me," he snapped. "It's just lucky for you that you caught that ball!"

Sanger's face began to turn purple, and there was a tightening at the corners of his mouth. Or perhaps it was just the shadow of a frown.

Some 30 minutes later he was in his office when Sanger stuck his head in the door.

"Hey, Thompson!" he called out. "You want to see me, or should I just clean out my locker?"

"'Rock' looked at him, and motioned him to come in.

"Sit down, Sanger," he said. "Be with you in a few minutes."

He purposely let Sanger cool his heels while he studied some papers on his desk.

The outfielder stood the silent treatment about as long as he could and then burst out. "Look, Thompson, any other club is okay with me."

"'Rock' said nothing for a moment, but looked him over carefully.

"Off the record, Sanger, what's eating you?"

Sanger met "Rock's" stare for a moment then lowered his eyes.

"Plenty!" he said, in a sullen voice. "First, you show up when the season's half over and by your playing spoil our chances of getting sold to a first-class club. And now, after a few weeks, you get the job as manager—raw as you are."

"You were inexperienced yourself, once, weren't you, Sanger?" "Rock" murmured. "Look, Sanger. I know you wanted to manage this outfit yourself. But you've been in baseball long enough to know, the breaks either come or they don't. You know enough to know the individual doesn't count. It's the team as a whole—and if you let them down where will they be? It takes cooperation from fellows like yourself. Sure, I've had no experience as a manager, but Miss Lee and her brother think I can manage the team best. I'm going to make mistakes. But what manager doesn't? Or player, for that matter?"

"'Rock' stood up and came around to Sanger's side of the desk. "What do you say, Sanger? You're generally a straight shooter and baseball means as much to you as it does to me. Let's finish this season clean. All I ask is a fair shake. What do you say?"

The veteran outfielder examined his stubby fingertips in silence, then grinned up at "Rock."

"Okay, you win. We'll give it a ride and see how we make out for the rest of the season. I want a pennant just as much as you do, as long as the Lees don't want to quit."

"'Rock' held out his hand and Sanger grasped it, then walked out without a backward glance.

It hadn't been easy for "Rock" to make such a speech, but he had swallowed his pride for the sake of harmony—and he had succeeded! Now, all they had to do was go after the league leaders, that's all!

MOSCOW HAS TROUBLE WITH SATELLITES

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Evidence multiplies that Moscow is far from having succeeded in communizing her satellite empire in eastern Europe.

Indeed it's becoming increasingly clear that Soviet efforts to bring that part of the continent into the Red fold—to say nothing of an ideological conquest of western Europe—will be a long range affair at best.

It's the old, old story that you may compel physical obedience by force, but you can't change men's minds by force.

Signs Of Hostility

Signs of hostility to the Soviet regime continue to manifest themselves in various parts of eastern Europe despite the use of the iron hand. Disaffection is so prevalent in some states that there is an almost constant purge of the disturbing elements going on.

Specifically, in Czechoslovakia many people recently have been sentenced—some of them to death—on charges of plotting to overthrow the government. And it should be noted that this is one of the key states of the Red empire.

Over in the three little Baltic republics the Russians have been launching a purge to protect the coastal defense secrets. The authorities reportedly fear fifth column activity by Baltic Nationalists along the seacoast where the Soviet is said to have submarine pens and rocket launching sites.

A Terrific Gamble

Hungary and Poland have been furnishing quotas of alleged disaffection. And of course Moscow has relegated Yugoslavia to the doghouse in toto with Tito.

So the story runs until we have sufficient evidence to warrant the Pennsylvania is conducting a rigid campaign to prevent forest fires. You are urged to break matches before throwing them away, bury cigarette butts and pipe heels, douse campfires with water, use ash trays in your car, be extremely careful with trash fires and use care in all woods operations. . . . The South Lyon (Michigan) Herald says editorially: "Free elections are at the root of all our freedoms. But free elections mean little if the people are too lazy or too indifferent to participate. A person who does not vote has no moral right to criticize the acts and policies of officeholders. When you vote you are building on the foundation of the best system of government ever devised. And that is as true of local elections as national elections. If you value your freedom—if you have any interest at all in defending and maintaining a free Nation—vote. Vote in every election. Every time you fail to vote, you fail to discharge the most basic American duty."

"Miss Pennsylvania" Gets Film Chance

Phoenixville, Pa., Aug. 15 (AP) — "Miss Pennsylvania" is going to get a chance in the movies before she goes to Atlantic City next month to compete for the title of "Miss America."

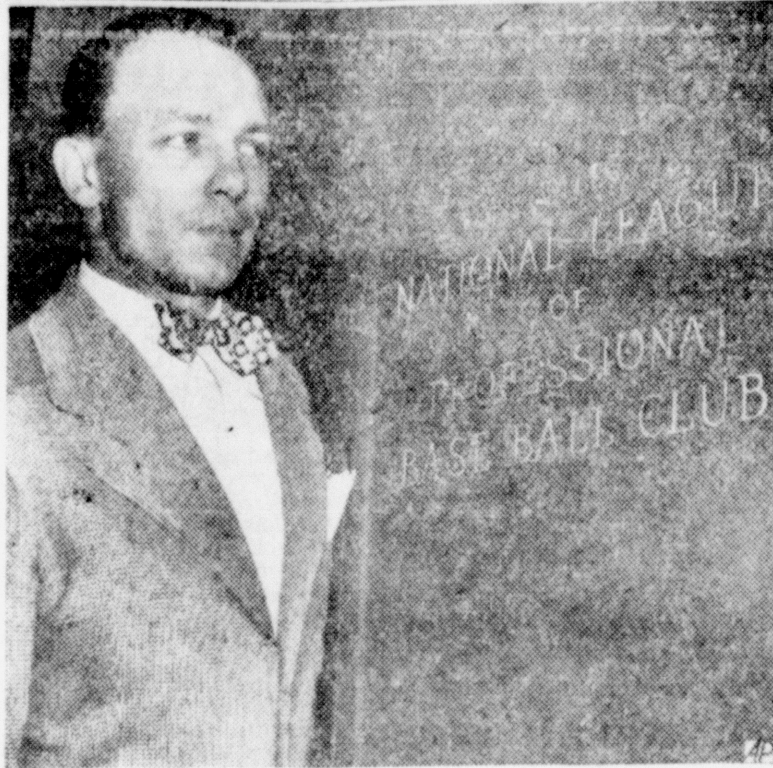

Universal - International announced yesterday Emille Longacre, of Phoenixville, will play a nurse in "Lights Out," a story dealing with the rehabilitation of blind veterans now being filmed at the Valley Forge General hospital.

Miss Longacre also will be a stand-in for Peggy Dow, the film's leading lady.

assumption that Moscow never will subdue all of the present generation in eastern Europe. The Soviet will have to rear and communize another generation before the danger of revolt is wiped out, if ever it can be.

So there we have another excellent reason why Moscow isn't challenging fate by employing strong-arm methods to conquer western Europe. She knows that, despite her 170 divisions of troops, it would be making a terrific gamble to push ahead without consolidating territory already overrun. The general who leaves pockets of rebels behind him is asking for trouble.

Naturally another powerful reason for the stoppage of the Red drive in Europe lies in the newly acquired strength of western Europe from the Marshall plan and the Atlantic pact military projects. And that's not to overlook the fact that America's striking power in atomic bombs is an unknown quantity to Moscow—we hope.

Second Baseman Eddie Stanky of the New York Giants leaves the office of National League President Ford Frick, in New York, August 14, after a conference. Frick said he would permit no further use of the unusual tactics used by Stanky, August 12 in the Giants-Phillies game at Philadelphia. Stanky was thrown out of the game because he jumped up and down and waved his arms in an apparent effort to distract the batter, Andy Seminick. The Giants, who lost 5-4, protested the game but Frick rejected the protest.

New Polio Cases In Philadelphia

Philadelphia, Aug. 15 (AP) — Two new cases of infantile paralysis in Philadelphia were reported yesterday by Dr. Rufus S. Reeves, director of public health.

Both victims are boys, one 14 and the other 17. They have been admitted to the Philadelphia Hospital for Contagious Diseases.

The new cases bring to 15 the Philadelphia total for 1950. Two have proved fatal. During the same period last year there were 10 cases reported and no deaths.
